

Corona Virus Is Having No Effect On Chance Trahan's Presidential Campaign

Presidential Candidate Chance Trahan Releases Highly Anticipated Official Corona Virus Statement

LOS ANGELES - March 16, 2020 - PRLog -- With mainstream media hyping up the latest man-made strain of the flu, the leading 2020 presidential candidate, Chance Trahan, has a lot to say....

"Purposely introducing a sickness is a highly illegal act and deserves severe punishment. There's obviously some Resident Evil crazed fan-base trying to recreate the game in real life by releasing a virus onto unsuspecting people. But, it's just the flu. How is buying and hoarding tons of toilet paper going to help you? It's not. It's all part of this agenda to try to create mass hysteria, but if you ask me, the people who are pushing this narrative are most probably the people buying up all the supplies to make this look like it's actually legit when it's definitely not," says Chance.

But that isn't all Trahan has to say about this whole staged event.

"We've had more candidates drop out of the presidential election than I can even count on one hand, and these are high profile candidates too! One by one, it seems they're all sensing danger with my campaign picking up momentum. It seems like this Corona garbage is all one extensive plot to attempt prevention of me actually having a campaign rally. The timing is all too perfect, and it's only 6 months after they tested this flu on both me and Kylie Jenner through poisoning marijuana. Her flu symptoms were so severe she admitted herself to the hospital. And I'm serious about the rich elite trying to thwart my Presidential campaign, because my Federal Election Commission Financial Analyst, Ryan Fournier, encourages me to file a termination letter every time I get this passive aggressive jerk on the phone. It's pretty sad how low these scumbags are stooping. Just look at how hard they're pushing that PR nightmare they say is the 'Corona virus.' Let me tell you something.... A slew of people recently asked me where I lived, and then suddenly, like clockwork, somebody in Pomona 'died' from this 'alleged' man-made virus. The only reason they're doing this is because this one man campaign is actually working and they're starting to see Trahan 2020 supporters. As a matter of fact, my campaign is so bold that I'm still waiting to see who the next Candidate to withdraw their Campaign will be. Look, if they think this mainstream media induced flu hoax is going to stop me from hosting public events and living my life the way I want to, then they're quite obviously mistaken on who they think I am or what I'm made of."
