

Seeking Answers About The Many Faces of God

A Journey To Answer The Question Of "Who Is God?" Or "What Is God?"

WASHINGTON - June 11, 2021 - PRLog -- God.

The word has seemed to have lost its meaning. We use that word so much that I feel like we've forgotten exactly what the word "God" is supposed to mean to us. I was once asked in a Meeting of the Minds group, "What is God?" The was boastful. Even proud. He had an attitude that reminds me of Katt Williams when he says, "Don't worry. I'll wait." He wanted a challenge. He was ready to erupt on anybody who answered him. I had no problem stepping up to the plate to take a real good swing. But, I was stopped short by the group's Meeting leader. She was saying, "Nope. We're not gonna go there." And it was kind of like when a teacher says, "Quiet, coyote." Everybody just fell silent.

This guy. He had no idea what to do. This was a defining moment. This seemed to me as if this guy had a demon in him and the fact that he was denied the opportunity to engage, he threw a fit and just up and left. It was quiet, but it was intense, to say the least. I was ready to cast the demon out of him, in Yahuah's name, by any and all means necessary. However, not today satan. Not that day. When he exited the room, lots of questions and hands went up, and the teacher cut in, and said that this was perfect, everything that happened here was perfect, and that now we're just going to take a breath and move on. The end went something like that with what she said. But, this moment stuck with me ever since. And here's why.

"Who is God?" or "What's God?"

Good question. I've been wondering that ever since. This was back in the day, the moment I just spoke of, and for all these years.... I couldn't get it off my mind. Sure, I'd go about my daily business. But, in the back of my mind, I'm going nuts. I'm racking my brain. Who is this God? I'm doing math in my head, and I hate math so much. At this rate, I'm starting to feel like the guy with all the diagram info floating in front of his face as he calculates stuff in his head. But, it's not just a hit or miss thing, I'm thinking about this all day long. Why? Because, this is God. He is the greatest mystery of all. If I can just crack this code, I will be happy, because, then, I will finally know God.
